

Abstract

COST CONTROL IN A TELECOMMUNICATIONS SYSTEM

A method of monitoring the chargeable activities of a user in a mobile telecommunications network. The method comprises monitoring one or more conditions on which charging may be based and normalising the or each monitored condition so that the condition(s) can be compared against a standard value and/or used for calculating a charge.

Figure 1